County Fair Parade plans in the making

Last year's maids were only part of the enjoyment of the annual Alameda County Fair Parade. This year's parade, once again under the direction of the Pleasanton Jaycees, is scheduled for Sunday June 29 at noon. Individuals, clubs or groups wanting to participate in a special unique category "Super Dooper Pooper Scooper," may pick up entry forms for this category from the fairgrounds office on Pleasanton Avenue. Deadline for filing is Friday, June 20. Awards are also presented in this category. Further information may be obtained from Lee Ann McFaddin, 846-1347. The Fair runs from June 29 through July 13.

Dispute over land use

Pleasanton to act?

PLEASANTON - If the Congress of Valley Agencies insists on becoming involved in the land use matters of communities, Pleasanton may well withdraw from that agency.

That possibility was voiced Monday night by Councilman Roger McLain, who said he would recommend withdrawal if COVA persists in its desire to review and take a position on this city's regional shopping center.

That issue has sparked a growing controversy between Pleasanton and COVA, which is composed of representatives of the valley's three communities and Zone 7.

The council did agree to allot 10 minutes next Monday night to give COVA Chairwoman Helen Tirsell an opportunity to explain her reasons for seeking a review of the shopping center plans.

It is Pleasanton's contention that COVA's charter does not include review of land use decisions within city limits and thus, the multi-million dollar shopping center is not an appropriate subject for a COVA agenda.

McLain, in voicing his recommendation that Pleasanton withdraw from COVA, said he is "very disappointed" in COVA's action and added, "If this is to be the trend, I strongly urge we not participate."

Councilman Bill Herlihy added, "I think it ought to be communicated to Chairwoman Tirsell that we do not intend to get involved in the affairs of othdr communities and we do not need COVA to get involved in our affairs. They are not responsible to our electorate."

The council agreed they had no objection to hearing Tirsell, who has been scheduled for 6:45 p.m. Monday, but they made it clear they do not believe municipal land use decisions are any of COVA's business.

Crime, accidents increase

More employees needed

PLEASANTON - This community is facing a manpower shortage that is rapidly reaching crisis proportions.

That deficiency, caused by the city's inability to afford more employees, is reflected in a rise in crime and injury accidents, undermanned fire stations, parks that are not properly maintained, streets marred with potholes and countless vital projects that are simply not being done.

City Manager Bill Edgar told the council Monday night it would take more than a half million dollars annually to bring Pleasanton's employment contingent up to the level that is required in 1975.

"Pleasanton is operating approximately 30 positions short right now," Edgar said, "and 15 of those are in the Public Safety Department."

Monday night the council heard presentations on goals and problems faced by the Public Safety Department and Housing and Community Development Department. Two weeks ago, similar reports were presented by the Field Services and Recreation departments.

Edgar arranged the two hearings to give the council a flavor of what their city departments are doing, what they are trying to do and the obstacles they face in maintaining even the most basic levels of service.

The major problem is lack of manpower and equipment and that is caused by lack of money, Edgar told the council bluntly.

Since Pleasanton cannot afford to hire those 30 people who are needed today, Edgar added, some choices will have to be made when the council sets the final tax rate later this summer.

Shortly after Edgar became city manager four years ago, he instituted a sweeping reorganization of city offices to bring about what he believed would be a more efficient operation. That reorganization involved bringing all maintenance operations under one umbrella, consolidating the housing authority with the city's planning and development departments and combining police and fire into the Public Safety Department.

Now, Edgar told the council, further reorganization will not result in greater efficiency but will merely be moving chess pieces about a board. The problem is money.

The building slowdown caused by a persistent sewer crisis and ever tightening environmental restrictions is partly to blame but the larger fault lies with Pleasanton's dismal sales tax revenue, which is far below that of other cities of comparable size, Edgar said.

The lack of funds is perhaps no more clearly reflected than in the police and fire operations. Police Captain Ron Nelson and Fire Captian Bert Cherry told the council their respective divisions each required a minimum of six additional employees.

Nelson said the police department must engage in "selective patrol" because there is not enough manpower and that vacations and illnesses further aggravate the problem.

Nelson added the morale in the police department is very low because the officers are getting tired of having to work overtime on their days off to insure a sufficient manpower contingent. "There are times," he said, "when we have trouble finding someone to work."

The fire department picture is equally bleak. Pleasanton's three stations are all insufficiently manned, Cherry said, with only two-men companies at the Highland Oaks and Santa Rita Road stations.

The response time from the main station, where larger equipment is stored, to Highland Oaks, he added, is "seven to nine minutes and that is simply unacceptable."

Cherry also urged the council to adopt an ordinance that would make installation of a sprinkler system mandatory in buildings larger than 5,000 to 10,000 square feet because the department's "first alarm response" is not capable of controlling fires in buildings larger than 5,000 square feet.

Perhaps less visible but equally important to the efficient operation of a city is John Bowling's Department of Housing and Community Development.

That department, which includes all engineering, planning, redevelopment, building inspection and housing authority services is also in need of additional staffing.

Bowling said one of the major problems his department faces is coping with "unscheduled" items that crop up during the year. He listed 30 such projects that arose in the 1974-75 fiscal year, including construction of the sewer ponds west of Interstate 680, engineering work on Stoneridge Drive and at the Hopyard Road intersection with Johnson Industrial Drive.

Not all of the projects required as much time as those three, Bowling said, but they are all time consuming. Although federal and state grants are aiding in the financing of some projects, Bowling added, preparation of those grant programs is also "extremely time consuming."

Responding to the public needs and to the needs of other city departments also slows the process, Bowling said. He cited six additional employees that department will require by next year to keep pace and to begin some of the advance planning and engineering work that should be in the works.

Livermore fails to win injunction

1-up, 1-down for New Town

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND -Judge George Phillips Tuesday refused to grant the City of Livermore an injunction which would have prohibited the Alameda County Board of Supervisors from continuing to move ahead with plans for Las Positas New Town.

At the same time he ruled the supervisors acted illegally when they approved a General Plan Amendment for New Town last December.

Livermore brought suit against the supervisors following approval of that General Plan Amendment, which opened the door for Harlan Geldermann's proposed new community in the Las Positas Valley north of the city.

In denying the injunction, Judge Phillips said he did not believe the city has "shown you have a right to summary judgement." The judge added the issues in the case, exclusive of the illegality of the General Plan Amendment approval, "should come before the trial court."

That General Plan Amendment was illegal, Judge Phillips ruled, because the county is only allowed three such amendments a year and the New Town action constituted a fourth, even though the supervisors stated it would not become effective until Jan. 1, 1975.

That ruling, unless it is appealed by the county or Geldermann, who intervened in the case, will require the supervisors (and the county planning commission) to take action again on the General Plan Amendment, allowing development in the Las Positas Valley.

Although the judge refused to grant the city's injunction, he obliquely supported the city's contention the supervisors acted in violation of the California Environmental Quality Act by overruling the adverse environmental impacts of the project. "In my opinion," he said, "I think the county is in trouble on the Environmental Impact Report."

He added, however, when all of the evidence is presented in trial, that may not be the case.

Above and beyond the legal and technical aspects of the case, Judge Phillips, who continued the hearing last week because of its complex nature, said it "really disturbed" him that no one is "talking about the 40,000 citizens" who would inhabit New Town.

"Those 40,000 people could choke to death in their own filth," he said, referring to the valley's air quality problems, "and what we're talking about is who is going to bring in those 40,000 people", the county or the City of Livermore.

No trial date has been set in the litigation.

Pleasanton city attorney applications being taken

PLEASANTON - Applications for Deputy City Attorney will be accepted by the personnel office through July 11, it was announced this week.

Applicants for the $1,400 to $1,500 per month position must have been admitted to the California State Bar and be able to analyze statutes, court decisions and legal documents, as well as research and prepare ordinances, resolutions, contracts, agreements and other legal documents.

Experience in the practice of public law is not required, but is "desirable," the announcement says.

The Deputy City Attorney will prepare less complex briefs, ordinances and other legal documents, and offer legaladvice to the City council, boards, commissions, committees and departments, including interpretation of statutes, ordinances and other legal authorities.

In addition, he or she will try routine law suits and perform routine legal work regarding elections, special assessment bond proceedings, land condemnations and annexations.

A panel of city attorneys will interview all candidates deemed most qualified.

Final selection will be made by City Attorney Ken Scheidig.

Applications should be sent to Pleasanton Personnel Office, P.O. Drawer C., 200 Bernal Ave., 94566.

Fairgrounds considered

Garden show coming to town?

While the County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton has lost a major fair-time drawing card, it apparently is still in the running for being host to the annual California Spring and Garden Show, a floral extravaganza that has been an institution at various Oakland sites for the past quarter century.

Mrs. Bettina D. Flores, secretary-manager of the First District Agricultural Association, said the group's board of directors is in the process of reorganizing under the leadership of new president Jay Ver Lee. She said the board has had a three-member subpanel charged with exploring possible new sites for the garden show.

Those sites include Lakeside Park, the Oakland Auditorium adjacent to Lake Merritt, and Dunsmuir House, present site of the show which is held each May.

Added to this list is the Fairgrounds in Pleasanton. The County Fair Association Board of Directors tendered the offer to the First District's board several months ago.

While a decision on where the garden show will locate next year is not expected until September, the Fair has lost a lesser drawing card that could have turned out thousands of antique buffs.

At their last meeting, Fair directors generally approved of an Oakland Museum offer to bring out, display and restore the Best Steam Tractor, a monstrous agricultural antique that was originally built in the early 1900s. It is 20 feet high at the stack, 13 feet wide, 25 feet long and weighs 11 tons.

The original idea was to bring the tractor out to the Fairgrounds, display on a concrete pad near the lawn area during the fair and then move it to the livestock arena for restoration. The latter project was estimated to take five to seven months.

However, the stumbling block came when the Museum realized it would prove too costly to send a crew from Oakland out to Pleasanton for a sustained length of time to restore the tractor to working order. According to Tom Frye of the Oakland Museum, the Best Steam Tractor is a 1904 model and was constructed in a San Leandro factory in the early 1900s. Best was a forerunner of Caterpillar Tractors.

The garden show, though, may yet windup in Pleasanton.

A major social event in its early years at Lakeside Park and the Oakland Auditorium, its significance has fallen off in recent years. It has been staged at Dunsmuir House the past three years.

Fairgrounds expansion

Livestock barns first in plans

New livestock barns, dubbed the Amador Pavilion, estimated to cost almost a half-million dollars, head the 1975-76 phase of the County Fairgrounds' five-year construction program.

The capital improvements program, recently unveiled by the Fair Associathon Board of Directors, was reviewed earlier this month by the City of Pleasanton planning commission.

Three projects were pinpointed to planners as "creating the potential for increasing use of the Fairgrounds beyond the two-week fair period." The fair runs from June 29 through the second weekend in July this year.

The three projects noted include the livestock barns, a Hall of Commerce Building slotted in the 1978-79 budget and a sports pool plaza in the 1979-80 budget. The commerce structure is estimated to bear a $1 million price tag. The sports pool plaza carries an estimated cost of $175,000. Lee Hall, Fairgrounds manager, has opined that the commerce building inclusion on the 78-79 budget may be optimistic. It is proposed to be the central building on the grounds if and when constructed.

Four other projects are also proposed for construction in 1975-76.

Relocation and extension of the carnival midway and kiddie land area was originally proposed for the 1974-75 fiscal year but has not been completed. Hall has said the project will commence immediately upon the conclusion of this year's fair. It carries a $325,000 price tag.

Other projects are the second phase of the Palm Way - main gate plaza and drop-off area, $65,000; landscaping, planting, lighting of the theater walk and park area, $65,000; demolition of existing livestock barns, $25,000.

Development of the Bicentennial Plaza, $200,000, and landscaping, planting and lighting parking areas 3, 4, 5 and 8, also $200,000, are the major 1976-77 capital improvement projects. Demolition of 4-H buildings and dormitories and improvement of the Gate 2 area are also included.

Clearing, landscaping, planting and lighting parking area 9 ($100,000), and development of a horsemen's way ($100,000) are the prime projects for 1977-78. A vehicle shelter ($50,000) and work on a plaza at Gate 4 ($50,000) round out the construction program for 77-78.

Upgrading of a floral palace ($175,000) and a gallery of art ($150,000) are in the 1978-79 program.

All projects are contingent on the Fair Association being able to gain the funds to keep the capital improvements program on schedule.

In reference to the proposed 1975-76 program, Hall explains that due to the construction of the Young California Building and the anticipated future construction of the Hall of Commerce, it is necessary to relocate the carnival midway and kiddie land area.

"Our master plan indicateds the carnival area to be moved to make way for other later developments in the plan and, at this time, we would provide underground ducts for utility services and also the permanent restrooms, as well as a special area in the carnival lot to take care of all carnival trucks and trailers," Hall adds.

Tax aid for seniors coming

A state representative will be in Livermore on Tuesday, July 8 to assist California senior citizens in filing claims for benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

A temporary office will be open at the Senior Service Center, 2466 8th St. from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., according to Jack Monroe, director of the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Program.

The special assistance is available to senior citizen homeowners with limited income. To be eligible for partial reimbursement of their 1974-75 property tax, claimants must own and occupy their home, be 62 years or older as of January 1, 1975, and have a total household income of $10,000 or less.

Almost 310,000 claims were paid last year for a total of $50 million, Monroe said. The average amount paid was $161.

The amount reimbursed is based on the total amonnt of property tax paid and the household income of the claimant, Monroe explained. Payments can range from 4 per cent to 96 per cent of the property tax paid.

Claim forms will be available at the temporary office or may be obtained from any Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Office or by writing to Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance, P. O. Box 1588, Sacramento, CA 95807.

The deadline for filing claims this year is September 2, but claimants are urged to file early. Payments begin in early July and are paid in the order received.

PWP lists social plans

LIVERMORE - Burglary will be the theme of a meeting of Parents Without Partners, at 7:30 p.m. June 25 in the Livermore Public Library.

Speakers will be from the Livermore Police Department, burglary division.

A PWP dance is planned for Saturday, June 28, at Shannon Community Center in Dublin. Live music and refreshments will highlight the evening, 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are $2.50 for members, $3.50 guests. Information may be obtained by calling 443-3061

Valley obituaries

Elfreda Dobbert

Elfreda Asta Dobbert of Livermore died in a convalescent hospital on Tuesday, June 17, 1975.

A native of Oslo, Norway, Mrs. Dobert, 75, was a 32 year resident of the Livermore area and was a retired private nurse.

She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Cressman of Minnesota, and sons, Leonard, Livermore, Arnold, Fremont and Phillip of Sacramento, and 11 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

She also leaves her brother, Oscar Sward, and two sisters, Mrs Gertrude Johnson and Mrs. Evelyn Lindquist, all of Illinois.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. in the chapel of Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore, followed by interment in Livermore's Memory Gardens Cemetery.

Friends may call at the mortuary after 7 p.m., Wednesday.

Contributions in her memory may be made to the Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 1020 Mocho St , Livermore.

Who's on third?... Where the... is third??

You do recognize the 105-acre Pleasanton Sports and Recreation Park, don't you? It's there somewhere, neatly festooned with last week's, last month's and perhaps last year's newspapers, handouts and unsolicited mailings. While members of both the American and National Little Leagues would like to thank the exterior decorators who thoughttully provide the leagers with two hours of pre-game recreational clean-up, they would like to remind the populace that the big, orange dumbster is not the mobile home of Pleasanton's Park and Recreation personnel, but is rather a receptacle for said decorage. Clever, what? Actually, they would like to encourage use of the paper-dump, since bulk paper sales offset costs which might otherwise be incurred by, yours truly, the taxpayer. Providers of the box have even more cleverly installed doors on one end so that generous environmentalists might better put their papers — NOT TRASH—inside where the wind won't whip them about.

75 cents for entry

Shadow Cliffs to charge fee

PLEASANTON - Starting Saturday, it will cost Valley residents 75 cents per car to get into Shadow Cliffs Regional Park.

It's the first time in the four - year history of the park that a fee has been charged. "We tried to hold it off," said a rueful Bob Lucas, Shadow Cliffs park ranger who made the announcement yesterday.

"But the district saw lots of money there."

Anyone who walks or rides a bike into the park will still get in free. But if you were thinking of parking your car nearby and just walking the last few hundred feet: "The CHP tickets every car they find on East Stanley Boulevard," reports Lucas. "The nearest parking is a mile down the road, in downtown Pleasanton, or two miles the other direction, on Isabel in Livermore."

Technically, the 75 cents per vehicle charge is only for residents of East Bay Regional Park District towns. Livermore residents don't pay EBRPD taxes and so are not members of the district. THEY are supposed to pay $1 50 per vehicle.

However, Shadow Cliffs rangers see no way to make that stick. They say they don't intend to back up traffic by checking driver's licenses and registrations.

They will, however, be able to collect huge fees from buses that come from out of the district.

They'll collect $25 from out - of - district buses, $3 from members.

Ironically, although Livermore is not part of the district, an estimated 60 per cent of those who use Shadow Cliffs are from Livermore, according to a sampling taken last year.

And now, for the good news: If there are 25 people or more, a lifeguard will remain on duty after 6 p.m. so users can get in that early evening swim after work.

No admission fee will be collected from evening visitors, either.

The fee had been scheduled to start April 1 at the park. But it was a rough spring, what with the EBRPD workers' strike which began April 4.

Even before the strike was settled, a parasite was found to be infesting the normally pristine waters of the gravel pit - turned - lake. NO SWIMMING was the word during the scorching early summer weekends. Yesterday was the first day swimming was officially allowed, since all traces of both the parasite and the chemicals used to eliminate it have disappeared.

Even at 75 cents per car, Shadow Cliffs remains a bargain for Bay Area families. Nearby Del Valle, which EBRPD operates in Livermore for the state, costs $1 per car on weekdays, $1.50 weekends and holidays. (At this point, the campgrounds at Del Valle are closed and undergoing enlargement, but the near side of the lake is open for picnicking, boating, fishing and swimming.)

Don Castro, Contra Loma, Lake Chabot and Lake Temescal all have a 75 cent entrance fee to their swimming facilities. At Roberts Pool, Lake Anza in Berkeley and Cull Canyon, there's a 50 - cent per person fee, a dime for children.

At Shadow Cliffs, there are canoes, kayaks and pedal boats available to rent.

Billboards must go, say Supes

Alameda County Bureau

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph Bort — absent from an earlier a meeting earlier this month — returned yesterday to cast the deciding vote that will remove three valley billboards from the roadside.

The supervisors came to rule on the matter after the billboard owners had appealed the ruling of Zoning Administrator Dick Flynn that disallowed the signs. Flynn's ruling came out of an ordinance passed by the county in 1969 that went into effect last year.

The billboard owners are expected to go to court after this latest refusal.

The delay on the decision came about because Bort was absent from the June 5 meeting and the four supervisors split 2-2 on the appeal.

Bort's vote apparently doomed two billboards along Stanley Boulevard just east of the Pleasanton city limits and a third on First Street near Las Positas Road.

Supervisor Tom Bates announced that he will present four possible redistricting plans at the July 1 meeting — the day before the Alameda County Mayors' Conference will examine them.

The supervisors hope to implement the redistricting before the election next June. Supervisor John Murphy , who represents the valley, will be up for reelection at that time, unless the rumors that he is going to retire turn out to be grounded in fact.

The supervisors also approved a contract to put up a traffic signal at Shannon Road and San Ramon Road to replace the four-way stop signs now at that location.

A rent program for low income families — somewhat analagous to the food stamp program — was discussed by the supervisors in their guise as the Housing Authority.

The program is Section 8 of the Housing and Community Development Act and will affect 61A units in the unincorporated areas of the county.

Elementary students like new scheduling

PLEASANTON- A new form of course scheduling tried the past school year at Pleasanton Elementary School has garnered strong approval from seventh and eighth grade students.

Of the 300 questionaires tallied, 74 per cent of the responses rated the school in the good to excellent category, as contrasted with 47 per cent of last year's seventh and eighth graders, according to Tom Leonard, chairman of the school's evaluation committee.

Basis of the survey, the A-B Schedule program, was to determine student identification with the new program as compared with the previous year's more traditional class setup.

In the A-B Schedule students rotate their courses over a two-day period so that, with the exceptions of math and English, they take half their subjects one day and the other half the next day. Each class period lasts 75 minutes.

The exact same questionaire form was used in both June 1974 and May of this year. In both cases over 300 questionaires were tallied up. Students did not sign their names.

A-B Scheduling allows longer time for project work. Also, because the school is on a tri-mester basis with most courses lasting 12 weeks, a great number of elective subjects are possible.

The new program also incorporates a Teacher Advisory Group (TAG) concept. Each student at the middle school level belongs to a small TAG which serves as a year-long vehicle for close personal contact between staff and students. The adult TAG leader acts as a friend and counselor, trying to help his or her TAG members with their problems.

The TAGs also compete with each other in fun-type athletic contests and school help projects. These activities are designed to promote school spirit and to help give all students a sense of worth and belonging.

The front side of the questionaire consisted of a series of 12 statements, each statement allowing for one of five possible responses ranging from "strongly agree" with the statement to "strongly disagree" with the statement.

In statement one, "Most of the classes I have taken this year have a lot to do with things in which I am really interested," 50 per cent of the responding students agreed or strongly agreed with the statement as compared to last year's 21 per cent who agreed or strongly agreed with the same statement. This year only 9 per cent disagreed or strongly disagreed. The rest partly agreed.

Some other statements, with corresponding agree and strongly agree percentage contrasts, went as follows: "The teachers in the classes I have taken gave me individual attention"— 21 per cent in 1974, 26 per cent in 1975; "My activity classes (art, physical education etc.) allowed me enough time to get my work done"— 36 per cent in '74, 69 per cent in '75; "I have come to know and like most of my teachers"— 52 per cent in '74, 63 per cent in '75; "The school really cares about me as a person. The teachers and counselors here are understanding, friendly, and very helpful"— 26 per cent in '74, 40 per cent in '75.

The only statement which drew a negative response contrast was "I consider most of the students at this school very friendly." In this case more children disagreed with the statement this past year than the children who took the survey the previous year. The decrease went from 54 to 45 per cent.

There was no significant difference in school rating by sexes. The number of girls who rated the school good to excellent was only two percentage points above the number of boys who rated the school the same way.

The generally favorable student acceptance of the A-B program seemed paralleled by parents of students in the school.

In another survey sent home earlier this spring to parents, 64 per cent of the responding parents rated the program "very satisfactory," a close percentage comparison to the results of statement nine on the student questionaire in which 67 per cent of the students agreed or strongly agreed that their parents approved of the program.

In the earlier parent questionaire only 5 per cent of the answering parents indicated they were not satisfied with the A-B program.

Library alive with summer plans

The Pleasanton Library is offering a full array of programs for kids up through Junior Hugh School age during the summer.

School age youngsters may attend any of several free programs during the summer, play one of two summer reading games, and try their hand at designing and writing their own books to enter in the Dublin-Pleasanton "Newcott Caldebery Award Contest."

A weekly film program for junior high school students will include a weekly drawing for a six-pack (of books) donated by the Pleasanton Library League. After June 16, junior high students may pick up an entry form for the six-pack drawing at the Library.

Films to be shown include the original "Tarzan and the Amazons;" a karate film; "Both Sdes Now" with Joni Mitchell, and other titles.

For further information, call the Pleasanton Library at 462-3535.

Taking your good health for granted?

Mrs. Rose Rapp watches her daughter, Debra, doing a bit of knitting, while recuperating from a broken back received in an auto accident in December of 1974. Jeanne Holcomb, a teacher from Granada High School, looking on, has been tutoring Debra each day while she is confined flat on her back. Debra will be confined to her bed on her back until August. With school over now, and no school work to be accomplished, Debra would enjoy a few letters, calls or suggests as to how she can while away the next two months. Persons can contact Debra by calling 447-8237.

Pleasanton Chamber praises county center site plans

Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce wants the Alameda County Board of Supervisors to know that "selection of this city for the county's planned administrative center is very much appreciated."

The chamber passed a motion to that effect at its Tuesday meeting, indicating that the choice of a hilltop site south of the city center and east of Sunol Boulevard would gain the chamber's support.

The motion will not indicate the concern of some chamber members over "the parking and traffic problems", that could result from development of that parcel for a county center that would serve all of the Amador-Livermore Valley.

Chamber president Ben Fernandez acknowledged that "some new street work will be needed" to ease the traffic congestion that already prevails throughout much of the city's core area, and that would be aggravated by addition of a major court house and office center for county uses. However the that concern was eased somewhat by the comment of Mayor Ed Kinney, a chamber visitor at that luncheon, who noted that "some money is always available" from county sources for helping resolve such street problems, when they relate directly to a county project.

In other business, the chamber forwarded a letter to the council expressing a need for "reserving available sewer capacity and aggressively seeking additional capacity" that would serve both commercial and industrial uses. A small amount of capacity is available now in the city-owned Sunol Boulevard treatment plant, and that facility could offer up to 250 additional connections later this year if the Regional Water Quality Control Board agrees that the city plant has passed the odor and effluent test.

Futuristic machines in Amador courses

The Amador Adult Education program will be offering a course in the operation of the Magnetic Tape Selectric Typewriter (MTST) and Magnetic Tape Selectric Composer (MTSC).

This class was offered for the first time last winter quarter and will be offered again this summer starting next Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. in Room B-4 at Amador Valley High School. The class will also meet on Thursdays through the end of July.

Class enrollment is limited to the first ten people who sign up.

The manuscript is recorded on the magnetic tape which is on the MTST and the recorded material is played out on the MTSC error-free.

Instruction will include the following fundamentals: Justification, centering, flush left, flush right, tabulations and dot leadering.

Registration fee is $4 and an additional $1 will be charged for a lab fee.

These and many other classes will be offered by the Amador Adult Education summer school program starting Monday, June 23.

Classes are also scheduled in upholstery, travel preparation, water colors and acrylics, pottery, oil painting, jewelry making, guitar, general crafts, band, art appreciation, tailoring, parent - child observation (Hill'n Dale Nursery), consumer homemaking, beginning and intermediate typing, speedwriting, real estate, business machines and shorthand, bookkeeping, U.S. History and English as a second language. The latter course is being offered at the Federal Youth Center at Camp Parks.

For more information on all courses, call 462-5500 during the day. Arrangements for the consumer homemaking class may be made by calling 846-4132.

Presentation at Valley View School

A story and photo on Page 14 of The Times Thursday should have identified Ren Lovell as president of the Valley View School PTA.

Mrs. Lovell was presenting an honorary membership plaque to Edythe Dellis, presently a second grade teacher at Vintage Hills School.

On Friday, a caption should have identified Ruth and Brian Hoyt as being co-presidents of Vintage Hills PTA.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all the kind friends and neighbors of Bernie Rodgers who assisted in anyway during his illness and death. Those who sent floral and spiritual bouquets, pallbearers, also the kind neighbors who sent food. The staff at Highland Hospital and dear Father Joseph McAlister, the most gracious Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Hitch and their staff. Most of all a sincere thank you to Gloria Deni and Rose Deni and all the Deni family for their kindness to Bernie and making their family his California family. Most sincerely yours, Daniel Rodgers and Marie Rodgers Dougherty. Hazleton, Pennsylvania

WALNUT CREEK

We put Contra Costa county on the map.

We think one great thing deserves another. To commemorate the opening of our new multi-million dollar Lesher corporate headquarters and printing plant in Walnut Creek, we commissioned a commemorative map of Contra Costa County. Here's the map you'll really treasure. See the County as no one has seen it before. Because no one has ever produced a poster map quite like this one. Anywhere. It's factual. It's functional. And it's fun.

Order your brilliant full color poster map today.

A chance to know your county better.

In exploring the map, you will make discoveries at every turn. Follow the labryrinth of roads, tracks, trails and tributaries. It's all here. In all its color. The towns. The Townlets. And the little known, out of the way places. See if you can find the redwoods in the Canyon. Or CONEY Island. Or Port Costa. We think you'll find it a lot of fun looking.

You'll also be introduced to some landmark figures who forever left their marks on the County. American Playwright Eugene O'Neill. Spanish Explorer Don Pedro Fages. Naturalist John Muir. And others.

Special limited edition offer.

Here's how to get your Commemorative Contra Costa County poster map.

These 28"x36" poster maps make a perfect addition to any child's room, den or family room. It's a limited offer. So don't wait. You save when you order in quantities of 11 or more.
Quantity: 1-10 poster maps ..... $3.00 each

AAUW reps in Seattle this week

Representing the Livermore-Pleasanton branch of the American Association of University women at the biennial AAUW convention at Seattle this week are Gail Garrison, president, Carol Slater and Dawn Gordner.

The convention theme "Women and the World Community" will be introduced by former Congresswoman Martha W. Griffiths, past N.O.W. president Aileen C. Hernandez, and Fumi Takano of Japan, officer of the International Federation of University Women.

During the five-day session, delegates will attend "open university" classes on feminine involvement with community, cultural interests, education, international relations and the law.

Delegates will adopt resolutions on such national issues as violence in children's television programs, foreign investments, and a moratorium on nuclear plant construction pending improved safety standards. They will vote on a national AAUW legislative program for 1975-77 that includes items on Social Security for homemakers, strong Title IX regulations, and resources conservation.

Founded in 1882, AAUW has a membership of over 190,000. To apply for membership in the local branch contact Ginny Faltings at 443-0238.

County fair preview June 28 benefits Children's Hospital

The preview showing of the upcoming Alameda County Fair season will encore at the Pleasanton fairgrounds Saturday, June 28 at 7 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale of tickets at $4 per person will benefit the Mulberry Branch of Children's Hospital Branches, Inc. Sponsored by the Alameda County Fair board of directors, the preview is under the co-chairmanship of Al Bonne and John Pleich.

According to Estelle Newcomb of Mulberry Branch, the preview was inaugurated last year as an experiment, and enjoyed such a resounding success that it has been made a permanent feature of the county fair.

During the evening guests will have the opportunity to view the fair's floricultural and art displays which will be open to the public the following day. The Alameda County Fair runs from June 29 through July 13.

Reservations for the preview may be made by calling the main office at the fairgrounds at 846-2881.

Growing older

How's your fuddy-duddy rating?

By Lou Cottin

There's a world of difference between aging and being "old." We start aging the minute we're born. "Old" is an unpleasant, highly unpopular state that we bring on ourselves.

Some make it by the time they're 30. Quite a few never get around to it at all.

In our society, attitudes toward the old range from a condescending, "Tsk, tsk" to a rude, "Don't butt in!" They say "old woman" and they really mean "old biddy." They say "old man" and they mean "old fool."

Luckily it's easy to know if you're either. Score six points for every comment where the shoe fits. Any total over 60 points makes you an old fuddy-duddy.

1. You're old if someone asks you how you feel and you tell them.

2. You're an old woman if you stop using cosmetics except for company.

3. You're an old man if you don't shave as often as you did when you went to work every day.

4. You're old if you've stopped reading the editorials in the newspaper.

5. You're old if you begin conversations "When I was your age. . ." or "In my day. . ."

6. You're old if you think the good old days were good old days.

7. You're old if Watergate doesn't make you mad.

8. You're an old man if you prefer to study the restaurant menu rather than the pretty girl at the next table.

9. You're old if you tell people about how sick you are, very old if you're proud of it, and decrepit if you use your sickness to gain sympathy.

10. You're old if you "never go out any more" — if holidays or weekends are no different from weekdays.

11. You're old if you don't get mad about the prevalence of evil in the world.

12. You're old if you think black people are asking too much equality too soon.

13. You're old if you hate young men with beards, and young girls in mod clothes.

14. You're old if you expect respect just because you worked so hard all your life.

Final audition

Final auditions for the Pleasanton Playhouse (ITS) production of the musical "The King and I" are tonight from 7:30 p.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building in Pleasanton.

Amateurs from throughout the valley will be cast in 36 adult parts including the role of the King, Anna, Tuptim, Lun Tha, Lady Thiang, and the royal wives, priests and dancers.

All parts will require a singing audition, with the exception of the dancers and three non-singing male roles.

Performance dates for the musical are Aug. 8-9, 14-16, and 20-23 at the Alameda County Fairgrounds Amphitheatre.

Pleasanton Newcomers

Newcomers to the Pleasanton area are invited to a get-acquainted coffee hosted by the Pleasanton Newcomers Club today from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

Members and guests will gather at the home of Cindy Sibert, 3651 Cambridge Ct. If planning to attend contact Julie Roble at 846-6560.

One of three in county

City to form 'Hillside plan'

PLEASANTON - The city will join Fremont and Oakland in Alameda County as the only three areas providing a comprehensive "Hillside Planned Development" ordinance in guaranteeing innovative developments while protecting hillsides.

The proposed ordinance will be forwarded to City Council for action.

Under its terms, 3.5 units would be allowed on 10-percent slopes, 2.8 units on 15-percent, 1.8 units on 20-percent and 1 unit on 25-percent.

No development would be allowed on hills with a greater than 25-percent grade.

"I make no bones aobut the fact that the ordinance is an expensive one for developers," City Attorney Ken Scheidig said, adding it is intended to "encourage innovative development" by "serious builders."

A comprehensive development plan and an Environmental Impact Report must be submitted by the developer if the ordinance passes.

The ordinance would require open-space lands retained in their original state without enhancement by landscaping and owned in common by owners of the residential lots.

While public trails through the area are possible, the open-space "for the mnst part will remain private. "There is no way an Oakland or Piedmont hillside development could happen under this kind of law," commissioners told a concerned resident who voiced fears of unwieldy development and a "lack of faith in our councils and boards."

The measure passed 4 - 0. Commissioner Butler was absent during the ballot.

In other action, the commission amended a staff recommendation for construction of Morrison Homes model home complex (including a sales office) on the north side of Morganfield Court.

Under the revisions, "6x6-inch" posts would not be required for wooden yard fences as staff recommended. Rather, "4x4-inch" posts planted three-feet in the ground in 12-inch round concrete holsters were allowed.

Morrison Homes successfully argued that the increased strength provided by "six-by-sixes" would not be necessary and wou(d increase fence costs some 40-percent.

Commissioners agreed, but thought the traditional "four-by-four" structure too weak.

Staff based its recommendation on reports of fences down during high-wind storms.

Morrison Homes agreed to the compromise.

Hartwig to chair committee

LIVERMORE - Resource and by-law committees were established at the first meeting of the Social Concerns Committee last week.

Once the by-laws are complete the seven-member committee will elect permanent officers but in the interim Rin Hartwig will serve as chairman.

The resources committee will gather reports, facts and figures to get an idea of the needs the proposed multi-purpose center should meet.

(The city has submitted a proposal to the county for the center, which would be funded entirely by Housing and Community Development Act funds through the federal department of Housing and Urban Development.)

Members also decided to meet on the third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. The location is to be determined.

In other business, members drew lots to determine the length of their term. Four year terms will be served by Marion Mendelsohn, Lillian Snorf, Myra Latkin and Tom Haratani. Rin Hartwig, Dick Flores and Judith Turner will serve for two years.

Tennis monitors scheduled to work Pleasanton courts

PLEASANTON - Beginning this weekend, tennis monitors will be on duty at the Amador High School courts.

The experimental monitoring program was approved by the city for a three-month trial period. Its success will be evaluated by the Park and Recreation Commission in mid-September.

The monitors, Doug and Art Brannan, were hired by the Pleasanton Recreation Department to insure an orderly turnover at those courts.

The monitor will be on duty from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays throughout the summer. The fee, which will pay for the monitors, is 25 cents per court per hour.

Reservations for four of the nine courts may be made from 1 to 4 p.m. Wednesday through Friday (for that upcoming weekend) by calling 846-8175. The other five courts will be allocated on a first come-first served basis.

Recreation Superintendent Bob Caporusso said the one-hour time limit, which the monitors will enforce, is designed to "allow a greater turnover and to allow more people to participate."

He added the time limit may be modified "if we find it unfair."

Previously, the Recreation Department had tried other voluntary methods to regulate time for court usage but these had been unsuccessful.

Art Brannan, 18, graduated from Amador High School this year and will be a freshman at Notre Dame this fall. Doug Brannan, 17, will be a senior at Amador this fall.

Recreation district

Summer rec activities open

LIVERMORE - There's still time to sign up for summer activities offered by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District (LARPD.)

Camp and classes beginning the week of June 23 have openings in most sessions.

Camps Bronco, El Toro , Little Totem and Totem at Veteran's Park and Del Valle offer horseback riding, sailing and nature lore for children from tiny tots to 13-year-olds.

Trampoline, judo, gymnastics, tennis and swimming classes for children and adults are open in daytime and evening sessions.

Ceramics classes are filled but there are classes in drawing and composition, jewelry, macrame, multi-media, oil and acrylics.

Children's drama, creative development and guitar offer lessons for aspiring dramatists and musicians. Creative dance, tap and jazz and a few belly dance classes are still open.

All golf classes are filled but sailing and fly fishing classes are open.

Adults and teens interested in a regular exercise program can still sign up for morning and evening swim-trim classes. A complete listing and description of classes is available at the LARPD district office, 71 Trevarno Road (off First Street). Registration is being taken at the office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Measles clinic set in Livermore

LIVERMORE - The Valley Health Care Center will hold a measles immunization clinic from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday in the East Room of the Livermore Recreation Center, 8th and H streets.

Immunization shots will be provided free of charge.

General plan study session scheduled in Livermore

LIVERMORE - A special General Plan study session will be held Wednesday night starting with a combined planning commission-city council conference at 6 p.m. and an 8 p.m. meeting with the plan's consultants.

Public input will be accepted at the 8 p.m. session which will be held at the city library, 1000 S. Livermore Ave. (The 6 p.m. joint session also will be held at the library.)

Specifically under review Wednesday night will be the goals listed as part of three task reports submitted by consultants Grunwald, Crawford & Associates on population projections and economic analysis; housing, and environmental resources management.

The council, planning commission and consultants have met twice before to discuss the three task reports, reviewing those sections city officials and members of the public wanted clarified.

At Wednesday night's meeting, however, city officials are expected to indicate their support or objections to specific goals proposed by the consultants.

These decisions will be reflected in the city's General Plan, which should be submitted by the consultants later this year.

BASSA sets pollution discussion

SAN FRANCISCO - Some far-reaching amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 will be discussed here Thursday at a hearing sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Local communities plan to send representatives to the hearing, which is one of four scheduled throughout the nation.

Among the amendments being considered is one that would reduce the federal funding share for water pollution control projects.

At full funding, sewer and water projects now receive 75 percent federal money, which is matched by 12.5 percent state funds and 12.5 percent local funds.

Another proposed amendment would limit federal funding for reserve capacity in sewer and water project, planned for future growth.

The EPA hearing will begin at 9 a.m. Thursday in the St. Francis Hotel.

France lures sailing Marions

Two Livermore brothers will embark on a month-long sailing junket to the coast of France in August, for championships they can neither afford or expect to win.

Nevertheless, Howie and John Marion are struggling frantically as summer draws near, to fulfill an obligation as one of America's five qualifiers in the World Fireball Sailing Championships at LaRochelle, France.

The cost for the tour could surpass $2,500 says John, and the chances of victory for a first time entrant are nil. But the graduates of Granada High School insist they will join four other U.S. teams who have qualified.

"This is something that may not happen to us for another decade," Marion said yesterday. "Here's the chance — we should take it."

John and Howie qualified by winning the Pacific Coast Championships for fireball class boats sponsored by the St. Francis Yacht Club of San Francisco last September.

They finished fifth in the national fireball championships in Colorado.

Three other teams are already certain for the World Championships, one headed up by reining U.S. champ Ed Berry of Sunnyvale. Joan Ellis of Massachusettsand Lee Davis of Michigan captain two other squads. A fifth crew has yet to be named.

The World Championships begin their week-long run Aug. 12 at LaRochelle, preceeded by two optional events the Marions plan to enter. First come the French Nationals, followed by the International Week competition. Both are week-long tuneups for the world finals.

The two lean blondes, three-year sailing veterans, will enter all the races with a boat they will charter in France. "If we thought we'd win, we'd take our own," John said. "But nobody wins the first one of these they go to.

"We'll take our own sails and rudder though, because they tend to stick louzy ones on charter boats."

Howie, a sophomore at Stanford University, will be the helmsman for the two-man team. John, who enters Cal, Berkeley in the Fall, will be the crew. "Originally we did it that way because Howie was older," his brother said. "I guess he's a better helmsman, but I'm a helluva lot better crew."

Howie's job involves manning the rudder, and shouting the orders to John over roaring gusts of wind. John must tend to the three sails, main, jib and spinnaker, and hook onto the trapeze, a device that allows the crewman to lean out far over the water for boat balance.

The two have become a finely meshed team, and it is teamwork, John says, that will win the World Championships."We know what the other person is thinking," Marion says. "We've built up trust in each other. For instance, I know he won't dump me in the water.

"We've learned by the trial and error method," John says. "But there is a lot of technology where we have some wide gaps."

The Marions chances at LaRochelle will depend a great deal on the wind. When it whips at more than 15 miles per hour, the brothers are at their best "because we can tac so much faster than everybody else," John says, but when calm sets in, so does trouble. "Under 15 m.p h. we don't go so well because you have to concentrate more."

Their concentration right now is aimed at raising the needed funds for a month-long trip to Europe. The Bay Area Sailing Association is donating $500 to the Marions, and Sailnetics is donating an El Toro boat to be raffled off Sunday. That, hopefully, will scare up another $700. John plans to earn $500 before August teaching sailing at Del Valle Lake.

That still leaves $800 to be earned, by two young sailors who plan to attend Northern California's most expensive universities in the Fall.

Their problems were almost compounded last week when Howie and a novice friend capsized their fireball in stiff 35 m.p.h. breezes on the Carquinez Straits. The mast was damaged in the mishap, but John says insurance will cover the entire cost.

So now it's back to fretting over trip finances, and the prevention of spills in the English Channel.

Those who wish to aid the sailors in their endeavor, through contributions or purchase of raffle tickets, may call 447-0309.

Pele: by invitation only SJ says

If you don't own season tickets for San Jose Earthquakes soccer, don't plan on seeing Pele when the New York Cosmos come to the Bay Area for an exhibition match in mid-summer.

"We think it's in better taste to give the choice of seats to our faithful," said assistant general manager Johnny Moore yesterday from his Earthquake office. "We are going to give the season ticket holders a chance to see the man. And they'll get first choice on extra seats as well."

The Brazillian superstar will make an appearance at San Jose's Spartan Stadium the final week of July or first week of August.

Everything hinges on the success of the two teams in the North American Soccer League. Should either ascend to the league playoffs, the exhibition match will be delayed. It will be cancelled all together if the Cosmos and Earthquakes play for the NASL championship. Given San Jose's poor record to date, that prospect is unlikely.

Pele's appearance here will be tied in with "Soccer Bowl 75", the NASL's championship round, to be played at Spartan Stadium. The man will serve as a walking, breathing poster for the NASL. The Earthquakes would like to schedule his exhibition contest just prior to the Soccer Bowl, and retain Pele in the Bay Area for an entire week or more.

The Cosmos are only too ready to accomodate, Moore says. "They definitely want to play us, it's just a matter of working out details."

He wouldn't reveal how much the Earthquakes must guarantee the Cosmos for Pele's presence. Moore added though; "It's a helluva lot more expensive than bringing anybody else out here. New York is trying to make some of its money back in that fashion."

The Cosmos signed Pele to a $4 million contract

They won't regain that expense through soccer exhibitions, Moore said, no matter how often the team plays. The opportunity for profits must come through the soccer team's parent company, Warner Bros. Movie Studios.

"They're going to make a movie of his life," Moore said. "That's where the investment lies. They'll never make money on the New York Cosmos."

Besides his contractual ties to Warner Bros., Pele is also obligated to the Pepsi Cola Co., for whom he'll film a series of six training movies on soccer, to be screened world-wide. The Pepsi logo was much in evidence at Downing Stadium in New York last Sunday when Pele made his debut on American television, coast-to-coast.

Though his arrival in New York pumped up the prestige of the entire NASL, Moore insisted yesterday that it was the Cosmos alone who purchased his services. There was no pooling of cash to lure Pele out of retirement in South America. "None of the other teams paid to get him here, and none are paying to keep him here," Moore said.

In fact, some franchises don't even want Pele. At places like Rochester and San Antonio, where attendance is low, NASL teams might lose money if forced to meet steep guarantees demanded by the Cosmos.

That is definitely not the case in San Jose though.

The Earthquakes are convinced Pele's apperance would be an instant sell-out.San Jose is averaging an advance ticket sale of 15,000 per game for regular NASL matches, Moore said. That leaves roughly 3,000 seats to be sold game days.

When Pele comes, those few remaining seats will undoubtedly be gobbled up well in advance of the exhibition date.

"I don't see how in the hell there are going to be any tickets left for this," Moore said.

The Cosmos will be here for only the one exhibition contest.

In this corner

The Livermore Boxing Club will stage an exhibition night at the Elks Lodge in late July that will feature three Golden Glove champions.

Tony Ramirez, who has built up the club to a membership of 15 by working out of his garage, will stage the exhibitions July 26, in hopes of instituting a series of local matches that would involve members of his club.

John Staggs of Modesto, and Oakland's Joe Cerezo and Erwin Williams, all Golden Glove winners, will be on hand to fight exhibitions. Also fighting will be six of Ramirez' own fighters, including Monte Anderson, Alex and Gino Campiotti, and Rick, Ron and Tony Garcias.

Ron, the youngest of the "Fighting Garcias," of Pleasanton, is nine-years old.

Bicycle trip to Yosemite

The Pleasanton Recreation Department is sponsoring a bike trip to Yosemite National Park on June 28, 29 and 30 for kids age 11 - 14 years.

The group will leave West Wind Youth Center, 4455 Black Avenue at 9 a.m. on Saturday, June 28 and return at 7 p.m. on Monday, June 30. The trip will be low-keyed, and you don't have to be an expert bicyclist to join in.

Cost for the trip is $4 for members and $5.50 for non-members. Sign-up forms and parental permission slips can be picked up at the Pleasanton Recreation Department, 200 Bernal Ave., and must be returned by June 25.

For additional information, call 846-3202, ext. 215.

Dickman stops the presses, 4-2

Dennis Dickman mystified Ham Printing with a five-hitter, earning Buranis Construction a 4-2 victory in Livermore Slow-Pitch Softball Monday.

Dickman stopped the Printers on single runs in the second and fourth innings. Only one was earned.

The winners reached Doug Hewey for nine base hits, including a pair of doubles by leadoff man Robin Green. He scored two runs.

Ham took a 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning when Jim Downing tripled home Casey Jones.

Ray Ancira's triple and a Larry Cassidy single tied it for Buranis in the bottom of the second.

Buranis took a 3-1 lead in the third inning on RBI-singles by Dennis Higgins and Tom Wilson.

In other action, Truckin defeated the Scribes, 6-3, scoring three times in the top of the eighth inning.

Al Tassell's run-scoring triple was the key blow in the decisive inning. Dave Olmstead walked with the bases loaded to force in a run. Tassell scored from third base on an error.

Steve Stevens' single in the sixth inning for the Scribes gave them a 3-2 lead. But Truckin scored an unearned run in the seventh forcing extra innings.

Tom Jaques was the winning pitcher, stopping the Scribes on 11 hits.

In the final game, Trinity Baptist blanked the City Employes, 13-0. Ray Bezio pitched an eight hitter. Don Martin clubbed four base hits for the winners. Howard Kosanke belted a three-run home run. He and Lee Cobb each went 3-for-4.

Eight Million Suffer From Migraine

Is it true that migraine headaches cause brain damage?

If you suffer from migraine you have enough trouble without worrying about brain damage - and there is no evidence that brain damage ever results.

Migraine accounts for a frightful number of headaches, and the number of sufferers in the United States alone is estimated at from 2 million to as high as 8 million.

Migraine is the "sick headache" type — classically, on one side of the head, but generally so severe as to leave you no choice but to suffer through it. There is nausea, extreme sensitivity to light, sometimes disturbances of vision, occasionally head noises, and other odd symptoms, besides the headache itself.

It is also noted that as many as half the children of migraine sufferers also have this trouble to some extent. It is also observed that sufferers usually are of intense, perfection types, and periods of stress trigger attacks. In some cases allergy seems to be involved, and some patients say that chocolate bothers them.

In addition, if a person feels himself becoming tense and "all wound up" a deliberate effort to relax and let things slide, instead of maintaining the pressure to accomplish too much, helps.

Knowing these factors can be helpful avoiding migraines. But once a migraine has started, there is little to do but rest quietly and try to relax.

It is also known that strong drugs should not be used but staying in a darkened room or covering the eyes with a cloth to shut out light often helps some.

The only truly effective course is to try and prevent these headaches instead of trying to find a remedy after they have started. Specialized chiropractic care is the choice of an ever increasing number of migraine sufferers.

Some of the most thrilling and truly rewarding professional experience I've had in chiropractic have come when an ex-migraine sufferer tells me that he or she has kicked the migraine habit.

Bill gets top lefty series

Bill Burtenhouse, a 173 average bowler, fell short of a 300 game on his final ball last week, but still managed to post the best single game score ever by a left hander at Granada Bowl in summer league play.

Burtenhouse left the six and 10 pins on his final ball to finish with a 298 score.

Burtenhouse finished with a 663 series.

Jeff Morrison rolled an 840 four-game series, and Bill Webb, an 820.

Other top three-game scores included Joe Leach, 612, Beth Tolman, 564, John Casella, 612, and Carol Casella, 547.

Haven sinks Donuts, 6-4

Winchell's Donuts posted four runs in the top of the first inning, but was overhauled by Hobby Haven, 6-4, in Livermore Babe Ruth Baseball.

Mark Davis, who entered the game as a relief pitcher in the first inning, blanked the Donut men over the final six innings. Winchell's scored its runs on six walks and Craig McLoughlan's single.

Doubles by Rick Wood and Blake Sgamba helped the Haven to two runs. Pat Powles tripled and Kevin Fitzpatrick had two hits.

Wes Karch singled twice for the losers.

The Elks defeated John Bailey Enterprises, 14-7, scoring five times in the first inning. Triples by Daryl Stone and Larry Dickenson, and Stone's double were the keys to a nine-hit Elk offense. John Bailey and Carl Dice doubled for the losers. Vince Brannan had two hits.

BOB ANDERSON and his fishing buddy, Ed Dean, were trolling at the Grantline Canal when Bob latched onto a 33-inch striper. Ed says it was hard to believe, "Nobody catches stripers on a bug eye!" — but that's how it happened. Bob was using a short run with a bug eye as a lure.

NOT TOO MUCH of a change in the fees for hunting licenses and they are now (or should be) on sale at your favorite sporting goods store, with exceptions outlined in the following information.

Hunters were reminded that there are several changes this year in the licensing picture, including a higher basic fee, a special deer license for the area designated zone X, and the deletion of the pheasant stamp.

The resident hunting license this year costs $10, up from $6 last year, although other hunting fees remain the same except for the $2 pheasant stamp which has been eliminated. The resident deer tag is $3, the bear tag $1, and the trapping license $1.

The junior hunting license (for hunters under 16 years) is $2; the nonresident hunting license $35 and the nonresident deer tab $25.

In the major change in regulations this year, deer hunters will have to decide, before buying their tags, whether they want to hunt only in zone X or only in the remainder of the state.

Zone X, traditionally known as district 1¾, includes all of Modoc County, most of Lassen County and portions of Siskiyou and Shasta counties. The regulations are designed to discourage hunting in that area, where the buck-to-doe ratio has dropped dangerously low.

Persons wishing to hunt only in Zone X are required to take or mail the 1975-76 hunting license to a Fish and Game office where the special tag may be purchased. These tags will not be available from license agents.

Hunters wishing to hunt elsewhere in the state may purchase their tabs from any authorized agent.

Offices where the zone X tags are available are as follows: 619 Second St., Eureka, 95501; 1234 E. Shaw Ave., Fresno, 93726; 350 Golden Shore, Long Beach, 90802; 411 Burgess Drive, Menlo Park, 94025; 2201 Garden Rd., Monterey, 93940; 627 Cypress (Box 1480) Redding, 96001; 1416 Ninth St., Sacramento, 95814; 1001 Jedsmith Drive, Sacramento, 95819; 1350 Front St., San Diego, 92101; and Building C, California Veterans Home, (P.O. Box 47), Yountville, 94599.

DO YOU STAFF your own shotshell hulls? It's a good economical way of getting a lot of good shooting for very little money! Try using a 12-gauge (Federal paper target case), 2 and ¾ length, with a Federal Champion shot container, containing 1 and ⅛ ounces of 8 or 7½ shot in front of 18 grains Hercules Red Dot powder with a Federal 209 primer. Use a good stiff crimp and you will come up with a good load going approximately 1200 feet per second. It's even a good dove load.

IF YOU HAVE a Colt single action Army revolver (also known as the Frontier or Peacemaker) treat it carefully. If it has a serial number below 165,000 it has a black powder frame and is not up to the pressures of the smokeless powder models. The 45 Colt was the most popular model of all; but the other calibers made by Colt may surprise you — here is a list showing a wide range: .22 Rimfire; .32 Colt; .32 S&W; .32-20 W.C.F.; .38 Colt; .38 S&W; 38 Colt Special; .38 S&W Special; .357 Magnum; .38-40 W.C.F.; .41 Long Colt; .44 Rimfire; .44 Russian; .44 S&W; .44 S&W Special; .44-40 W.C.F.; .45 Colt; .45 Colt Auto (ACP); .450 Boxer; .450 Eley; .455 Eley; .476 Eley.

A fundamental right to mold our schools

Newspapers, educators and other sources of enlightened community action are quick to rap "the people" on those many instances when the populace fails to identify with some matter of classroom importance. "These are your schools, and YOUR children!", is the usual critique.

But when some of the people are brave enough to suggest that public education as now structured is less than perfect, then the criticism takes on a different bent: "Bunch of meddlesome right wingers," is one likely rebuttal.

We appear to be dangerously close to that kind of denunciation in the current debate over "returning the classroom to fundamentals." There is considerable pro and con on the merits of such a change in emphasis. Few of us are qualified to pass judgement, right now, on the long-range worth or harm of any restructuring of the classroom atmosphere.

None of us are so blind, however, as to deny that "the fundamental approach" is worthy of consideration, public debate and even perhaps a fair trial. In an earlier comment on "getting back to fundamentals," this newspaper suggested that it was because great numbers of parents are less than satisfied with the attitude and the results of public education that they were prepared to try any route that seemed to "accentute the positive."

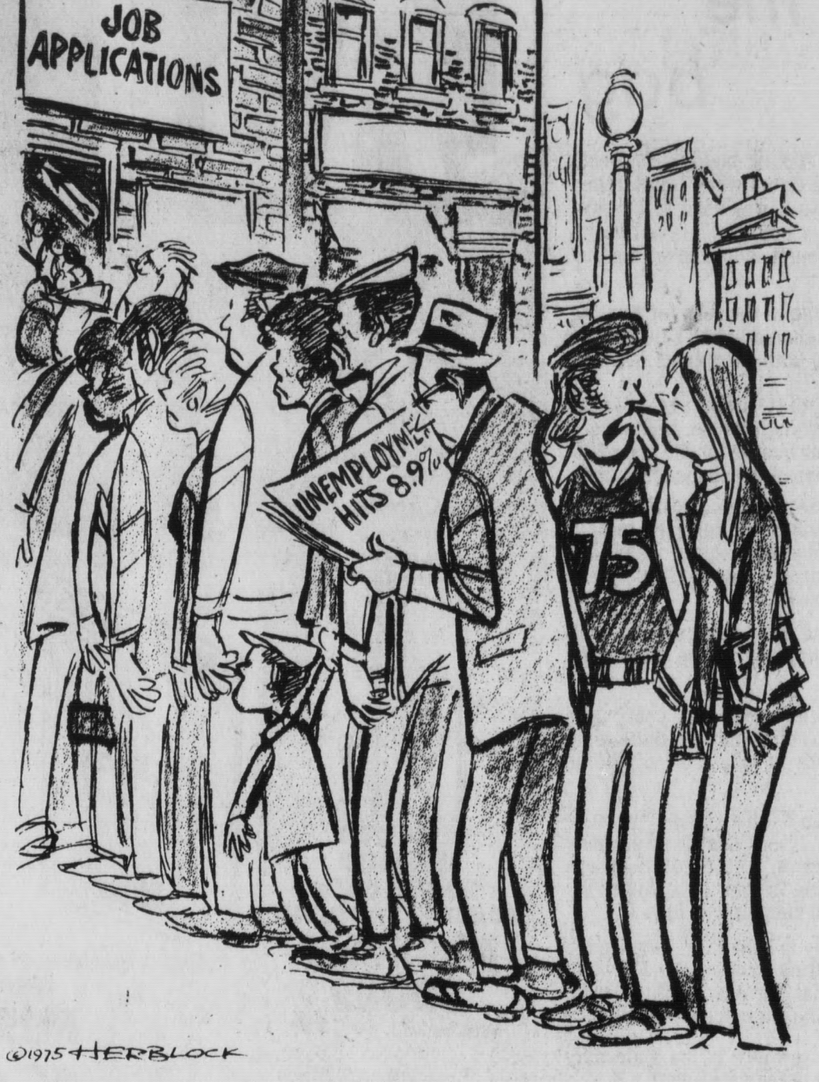
We do not know if the fundamentalist approach would work, or would lend itself to our schools even if proved successful elsewhere. We do agree with those who wonder at the total lack of discipline — both in disregard of rules and in the resulting breakdown in individual academic discipline — within so may many of today's classrooms.

But above all, we respect those parents who raise the question, offer an alternative, and demand consideration for that idea. To cast them all aside as "right wing nuts" or "religious fanatics trying to force parochial ideas onto public education" is to suggest that we are a nation gone beyond change, particularly when that change hints at a return to God, motherhood and family.

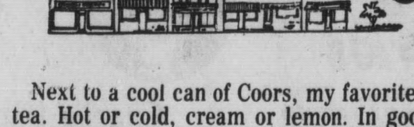
People who go to church, who believe in saluting the flag, who respect authority and who might hope their children could follow a similar code, have just as much right to speak to our "public school system" as do those who see teachers as bearded prophets of a far-out world.

It is in our ability to encourage such diversity of thought, and then to give all ideas a fair hearing, that we mature — as students, as parents and as a nation. To act otherwise is to not deserve our public schools, or any of the other democratic institutions.

"This Is Where We Register For The Postgraduate Economics Course"



round the town



Next to a cool can of Coors, my favorite beverage is tea. Hot or cold, cream or lemon. In good times but especially in days of woe, tea is the elixir of my life, the brew bird of happiness, so to speak.

But not recently. We are having a tea crisis at our house. It is our most difficult marital miff since the introduction of Saturday golf.

"This batch tastes more like liquid licorice," I announced following yet another tasting. It was some improvement over yesterday's effort, which emerged with all the pungency of hot brandy, but all the flavor of skimmed milk.

"I don't know what to do," she said with considerable exasperation. "I've tried everything. I'm convinced it must be the city water."

We had come to the tea habit not so much because of my Canadian background, but rather in response to her own troubles with coffee. "The stuff just goes right through me," she declared some years ago. Since it was at a coolish Stanford football game that she made the discovery, and since each such announcement was followed by crawling over great gobs of fans, then up 60 and down 20, just to reach the nearest lady's room, it was apparent that coffee was no longer her thing.

And so we turned to tea. For fully half our married life it would prove to be the one beverage we could share without limit, or day-after lament. But that was before the crisis.

* * *

"Some one at Safeway told me their tea isn't much good these days, either. They've switched from Lipton bags to Orange Pekoe. I bought a package." She followed that announcement with a great boiling of water and rattling of cups. We stood around impatiently waiting for the results.

The bag said Darjeeling Golden Orange Pekoe. With a title like that, I thought, how can we miss? But miss we did.

"Reminds me of a popsicle I had once as a kid," I concluded. "The thing melted, so I poured it into a cup. Drank the thing. Tasted absolutely awful."

"If you think you can do any better, I suggest you buy the tea from now on. I'm through," she said, close to tears. It was a delicate moment.

"How about this package of Billy Tea the kids sent us from Australia?" I had been rummaging through the kitchen cabinets. Anything to save our marriage. "My dear mother always made wonderful tea," realizing as soon as I said it that it was the wrong remark, wrong time, wrong place. But I pressed on. "Pre-heat the tea pot, she would tell us ... one teaspoonful for each cup, and one for the pot ... pour the boiling water directly onto the tea leaves." The entire process brought back memories of my childhood. The resulting brew brought back something else.

"Do you drink this, or eat it with a spoon?" She was getting even. I kept my cool. "I seem to remember mother using a tea leave strainer," I said, rummaging through the kitchen drawers.

"This Billy Tea must be two months old, which could have something to do with it," she suggested. But I was deep in the bottom of the drawers, strainer hunting, and cared not for her comments.

* * *

We went from there to something called "English Breakfast." Made in the Spice Islands, it said. Tasted like stewed sand.

"How about that crock pot thing the kids bought us last Christmas?" I was getting desperate. "I'm not spending two hours just to brew one pot of tea," she replied. "Maybe we could switch to Ovaltine," I ventured, "look what it did for Orphan Annie."

There was an air of urgency in the room. Like Pasteur in the process of discovering milk, or whatever it was he did. Our kitchen looked like a high school home ec classroom. She was near tears, again.

In truth, I am not what you would call a demanding person. My needs in life are simple. "Give me a little cooperation during the week and a 16 handicap on Saturdays, and I am a contended man," I have said more than once. Or perhaps once too often. But a good cup of tea was one condition of that contentment. Now, at the twilight of life, this one pleasure was to be denied us.

"I can remember all those great tea parties mother would participate in," I said to no one in particular. "The tea cup was as important as the brew. Some of them were works of art. Mrs. Ridley would always insist that the cream had to be poured in before the tea was added. She would raise bloody hell if it came out the other way around."

"I think you should call the city water department," she said, shocking me back into reality. "Maybe you could write an editorial, or something. I'm sure there are more people in town concerned with this awful water than they are with some sewer plant capacity."

"To each his own," I countered, as I flipped open a can of Coors and headed for the outdoors. Even Admiral Hornblower knew when it was time to retreat. But never during tea time, I'll betcha.

Senator Cranston vs. curbside mail service

Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) has protested proposed curtailment in certain mail service which he estimated would inconvenience more than 500,000 Californians. Hardest hit, he said, would be the elderly.

In a letter to the Postal Service, Cranston charged that proposed new rules are "not in accordance with the intent of the Postal Reorganization Act" and "represent a withdrawal of the service prescribed by existing regional instructions."

One new rule to which Cranston objected would eliminate door-to-door delivery in all new residential areas. These include urban renewal projects, retirement communities, permanent mobile home parks and subdivisions of existing communities.

Cranston said that replacing door delivery with curbside service in those cases would be a great disservice to many residents, particularly the elderly who may have difficulty walking the extra distance to get their mail.

Cranston also pointed out that many communities have ordinances which prohibit curbside mailboxes.

Cranston said he has received a number of letters from California community leaders and elected officials expressing their concern that curbside mailboxes invite vandalism and theft.

The California Senator urged the Postal Service to require "door-to-door mail delivery to both permanent residential and permanent mobile home parks which are retirement communities or where a substantial portion of the residents are retired people."

Another objectionable regulation, Cranston said, provides that rural mailboxes are curbside in permanent mobile home parks must be clustered together in groups of three. He said he had been assured by the Postal Service four years ago that no more than clusters of two mailboxes would be required.

Cranston called the proposed rules "discriminatory" against elderly citizens and others who choose to live in new communities and in "conflict with the Postal Reorganization Act which cites public service as the number one postal management consideration."

Hindsight/Foresight

Is Fair stipend just?

The best laid plans of mice and men are offtimes knocked head over tea kettle by the grim modern day realities of financing.

Or so part of the immortal saying goes.

The Alameda County Fair Association Board of Directors is finding it doesn't necessarily have a friend in Sacramento. What they have found are 77 or so other pairs of hands, representing big and small fairs and expositions in this state, all reaching for $65,000 allocations.

It seems to matter little if you're the Alameda County Fair and prospering or the three-day Boondocks Fair and Exposition and just mucking along doing a highly mediocre job.

At least that's the impression some Alameda County Fair directors and Fairgrounds manager Lee Hall have after a lengthy session last week with a Division of Fairs representative and Brian L. Davie, senior consultant to the joint committee on fairs allocation and classification.

The Alameda County Fair depends on the $65,000 allocation, part of a formula determined by the state four decades ago, for operation of the fair and payment of premiums. Given a lesser amount, such as three years ago when only $42,000 was funded, the fair is forced into a position of cutting premiums in the livestock categories.

The $65,000 is part of $4.6 million available to the 77 fairs and expositions in this state. However, there are four that receive considerably more as set down by statute.

They include the California State Fair, $265,000; Los Angeles County Fair, $250,000; Grand National at the Cow Palace, $250,000, and the Great Western Livestock Exposition in Los Angeles, $125,000.

Alameda County Fair directors were something less than sympathetic when reminded of the stipend going to the Cow Palace event.

As reported in these pages last week, Hall voiced concern to the Sacramento contingent that fairs such as the one in Pleasanton are being "penalized" for being successful while lesser fairs....ones that play to areas with no growth in population or commerce....continue to get an equal amount of funding.

And at first glance it certainly looks as though Hall has a point.

It is hard to accept possible reductions in monies for premiums or curtailing of plans for direly-needed expansion when their are fairs in small counties, with one-tenth the spectator and entrants draw, receiving equal or near-equal allocations.

Hall, as well as most of those close to the fair scene, knows their are more factors involved. The state's economy is a reflection of a country-wide recession that figures to continue into 1976.

But the fact remains that it is long past time for a change in the allocation formula drawn up so many years ago.

If something called the Great Western Livestock Show in Los Angeles receives $125,000 and the Grand National at the Cow Palace $250,000, why so little to Alameda County? Or put another way, are we of comparable stature county fair-wise with such counties as Colusa, Glenn and Placer? The Alameda County Fair has been in a halcyon era over the past decade construction-wise. This has been capped by opening of the cavernous Young California Building and continuing upgrading of the track.

However, the dollar squeeze has put plans for other projects including a million dollar theme exhibition building on the back burner.

What fair directors and Hall seem to be doing is little more than treading water in the wake of a storm-tossed ship of state.

They deserve a better fate.

Maybe a move to restructure the allocation formula would be in order now.

Complete recycler

Editor, The Times:

You as a thoughtful citizen may have taken part in a group fund raiser or made some pocket money by recycling newspaper or aluminium. This is an important step in conserving our resources.

We would like to invite you to be a complete recycler by bringing all food and beverage cans and glass containers and newspapers to the Livermore Community Recycling Center, located at the end of Pacific Avenue behind the barn (near the library) or to the Dublin Recycling Center, Dublin Blvd. near Foremost any Saturday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Probably one of the hottest topics of conversation in these warm valleys and one of the most severly criticized individuals is Don Miller, currently a member of the Livermore City Council.

Believe me, I am among the critics more often than not the good Doctor of Science from the Livermore Lawrence Laboratory and this old man are at odds when it comes to decisions which direct the destiny of Livermore and its environs.

Which, I suppose, is why I feel compelled to come to his defense when I believe the man with the big brain and ideas which I believe to be repressive and in violation of the civil rights of many of this areas citizens, is unjustly taken to task.

Sometime last week a laddie approached me and asked why the good councilman wasted the time of himself and anyone else attending a Livermore Valley Water Management Agency with his stubborn nitpicking.

Miller had demanded that the board cover, line by line, a lengthy report on one of the valley's many water problems.

Believe me, he was not nitpicking. He was, in his own mind and those of many of his supporters, protecting his constituents and doing his job to the best of his ability.

Call Miller anything except a good study and a conscientious elected official. The man does, and always has done, his homework. Matter of fact I have wondered exactly how he can study so hard and come to the wrong conclusion so many times.

Whatever his decisions, from the standpoint of the electorate, we could use more councilmen, supervisors, legislators and congressmen with the absolute dedication Miller offers his constituents.

When he demanded the LVWMA board study each item separately, he asked that they do what he had no doubt already accomplished. When Miller shows up for his city council meeting weekly, or appears before another public body (which he does far too often for my taste) he is prepared. I wish I could say as much about every other legislator in the United States.

Don Miller may be a misled citizen from my window. But by anyone's standards he is a GOOD CITIZEN. That, to me, is important.

Which brings me to the point of this message. I have on my desk a well meaning and patriotic letter from Gordon S. Smith of Livermore who objects to the folks who want daily flag salutes in the city's schools.

Gordon's thesis indicates he believes the salute loses dignity and is lost as a meaningful experience when performed without the proper pomp and circumstance on special occasions.

While I sympathize with his point of view I find myself, as I so often do with Miller, at odds with his conclusions.

For some eight years (actually seven and a half in case there is a picker in the crowd), I stood in class daily and saluted the flag of the United States.

When I was on the edge of entering my teens one Junior Malone, an unfortunate lad whose knickerbockers,worn long after the rest of us had donned longies, matched the atrocious handle with which he had been saddled, and I debated over the national anthem.

Malone, defended the Star Spangled Banner. I (and not willingly, I admit) was the advocate of America the Beautiful.

We reached some sort of a stalemate when I replied to Junior's question, "What would the country be without a flag?", with the scornful retort, "We wouldn't need a flag without the country."

However logical my argument, I lost the debate by popular vote, the kids of that day being more inclined to favor "the rocket's red glare" over "purple mountain majesty."

Neither of us, however, had anything except respect for the flag "of the United States of America and the republic for which it stands." Both were interrelated in our minds and both were dear to us.

I wonder how dear they are to the youngsters in grade school today. There was ample evidence of patriotism (a dirty word to many youngsters and young men and women today) in Maynard Moreland's Spirit of '76 club to which I talked recently.

They listened with flattering attention while I extolled the virtues of life in this massive island of plenty on a fairly miserable planet.

Of course I had to ask the question, "Was that the lot, all the patriotic students?" Moreland replied there were others.

How many others was a subject I did not approach, mostly because I didn't want to know the answer.

I do know that allegiance to that flag, which symbolizes this amazingly benevolent country and the government which made our good life possible, is on the wane.

I have a story on my desk which has been there for days for the simple reason I regard the lead, dealing with the 4th of July, as flippant and will not have it published until it is rewritten with proper respect for the subject.

That attitude may be received with a considerable degree of scorn by some members of this community, particularly those in the younger generation.

I thank God it is my attitude and intend to cling to it fervently to the day I die if He is willing.

Most of my patriotism was born of gratitude for the great opportunities presented me by this republic. Some of it was conceived during those daily flag salutes at the Cupertino Union School.

Find fault with this country if you will, my friends, but give eternal thanks you have been afforded the opportunity to live in this great land which treats most of us so well.

A daily flag salute, a reminder of our blessings, will not hurt the youth of Livermore. Instead it may produce more good citizens.

Like Don Miller, God help us.

Hexcel exec now parks chief

Robert Owen, formerly with the Hexcel Corp. in Dublin, has been appointed Chief of Administration for the East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD).

Owen, 45, was involved in developing the Lone Star trail in Shadow Cliffs Regional Park when employed with Lone Star Industries of San Francisco.

EBRPD General Manager Richard Trudeau introduced Owen, currently vice president for administration and personnel with Citadel Cement Co. in Atlanta, Ga., to district department heads at a work session in Concord Monday.

The job specifications call for Owen to "coordinate and be responsible for administering the major support functions of the district," including the work of the controller, development specialist, personnel director and director of public information.

In addition to the six years he spent with Hexcel of Dublin, Owen spent two years with MJB Co. in San Francisco and three with Lone Star Industries.

He will report to his $25,417 a year job within the next two weeks. In the meantime, Owen will be househunting again in Walnut Creek, which he left 18 months ago for the Atlanta post.

So, what's new?

Eleven Valley babies were delivered recently, according to reports from two Bay Area hospitals.

Eden Hospital, Castro Valley, reports a daughter born June 4 to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kleindienst, 3141 Pawnee Way, Pleasanton, and a son June 6 to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Myhre, 2129 Mars Road, Livermore.

Also at Eden, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Leland DePrater, 3972 Vineyard Ave., Pleasanton, had a son June 11.

Kaiser Foundation Hospital, Walnut Creek, reports the following arrivals:

May 31, a boy to Edwin and Marilyn Lickiss, 3287 Ensenada Drive, San Ramon.

June 1, a boy to James and Debbie Hewitt, 490 McCloud St., Livermore.

June 3, a boy to Carl and Karen Nuckolls, 1087 Nielsen Lane, Livermore.

June 4, a boy to Douglas and Linda Webb, 5191 Lillian Court, Livermore. June 5, a girl to Jeffrey and Carol Forsstrom, 781 Olivina St., Livermore.

June 9, a girl to Bruce and Barbara Urban, 821 Palanine Drive, Pleasanton; June 10, a girl to Sheila and John Akins, 3178 Arbor Ave., Livermore.

June 11, a boy to Nancy and John Dobbie, 7518 Blue Fox Way, San Ramon.

Three parks jobs open

Three positions with the East Bay Regional Parks District will be offered this summer for youths 16-18 with no previous experience.

The three Environmental Maintenance Aides will work at Sunol Regional Park, Del Valle and Shadow Cliffs from Friday through Monday for five hours a day.

The pay scale will be $2.10 an hour and the job will include general maintenance — picking up litter, cleaning restrooms, cleaning beaches and so on.

Applicants — who must be attending high school in the fall — should pick up the necessary forms at Shadow Cliffs between 7 a.m. and dark this week. Applications must be in by Friday.

The job will run from July 2 to September 15. Interviews will be held June 25 and 26. Further information is available at 846-3000.

Status report due for BASSA

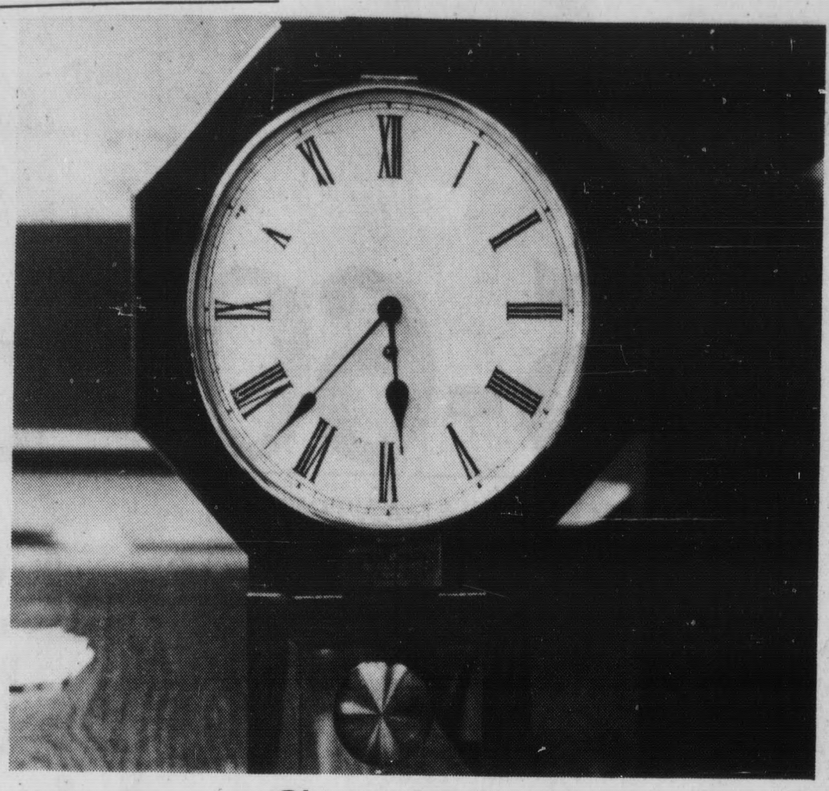
BERKELEY - The Bay Area Sewer Services Agency will hear a status report on the proposed Bay Area Planning Agency at its Wednesday night meeting.

The agency, which will be established if AB 625 is approved by the California legislature, will combine the planning powers of five existing regional agencies.

The BASSA board will also consider approving an extension of the management services agreement with the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency.

The board will also consider approval of communications to the Regional Water Quality Control Board and Zone 7 concerning planning of the Alameda Creek Watershed; and epproval of a letter to the RWQCB regarding the LAVWMA proposed water management project.

BASSA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Alameda Room of the Hotel Claremont.



Class of 75 gift

This antique-style clock, constructed by student Dennis Hart, was presented to Amador Valley High School as the gift of the Class of 75. Presentation was made Thursday night during graduation ceremonies at Fairgrounds Amphitheatre. Hart is the son of former Amador - Pleasanton district administrator Tom Hart, who died last winter. Rodriguez wins scholarship

LIVERMORE - Jorge M. Rodriguez, a Granada High School graduate, has been awarded the top $500 scholarship of the Latin Organization for Betterment, Project Southwest and El Grupo Guadalupano.

Rodriguez plans to study at Chabot College. Other honors shared by local students included:

A certificate to Ernest R. Domondon of Granada High, planning to attend Chabot; Certificate to Manuel F. Luna of Granada High, going to Chico State University; Certificate to Rita Guttierrez of Livermore High, headed for College of the Holy Names, Oakland; and certificate to Debra Lagapa, for outstanding achievement: she's a Granada High graduate headed for the University of California, Berkeley.

A certificate and a $50 scholarship went to two students: Robert P. Felicitas and Rene J. Parra Jr., both Granada High graduates. Felicitas will be attending San Jose State University amd Parra plans to continue his education at Chabot.

The scholarships were made possible through the fund - raising efforts of the three Latin organizations. They were presented at the Livermore and Granada High awards assemblies recently by Dr. A. Tilles, Richard Flores and Mrs. Frances Diaz. The certificates awarded selected students cited their meritorious achievement.

Corporate power labeled threat

"The concentration of corporate power in America has created an economic Frankenstein which threatens to destroy the free enterprise system" Representative Fortney Stark told the graduating class at Granada High School last week.

Stark's speech harped on the theme that America needs economic reworking to deal with the problems of the modern world and outlined a series of reforms that he would like to see implemented

Stark called for:

- Breaking monopolies into smaller companies as a means of restoring competition and forcing down prices;
- Providing incentives for creation of worker-owned companies;
- Guranteeing jobs for anyone who wants to work;
- Establishing a guaranteed annual income for everyone;
- Providing incentives to those who want to launch new enterprises;
- And "in short, giving new life and meaning to the concept of entrepeneurship, or free enterprise"

Stark serves on the House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee, which will soon take up the subject of tax reform, a tool he said could be used to discourage the concentration of corporate power.

On the state level, Assemblyman Floyd Mori supported a bill which has cleared the Assembly that would allow changes in taxes on corporations and banks by a simply majority of the state body rather a two-thirds margin.

Presently, taxes on individuals can be raised by a simple majority vote.

"If an individual can have his taxes increased by a simple majority vote, the same should hold true for those with the greatest ability to pay" Mori said. "We cannot wait any longer to strike these kinds of inequities from our tax laws."

Stark told the graduating Granada students "Government is capable of returning our country to a true free enterprise system. We have the tools, but so far have lacked the will to use them."

For Wednesday, June 18, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't make hasty judgments today based upon cursory evidence. It could get you in a pickle. Wait till all the facts are in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Because of indifference you're unlikely to take full advantage of a situation that could be beneficial to your work or career.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't put too heavy an emphasis upon having a good time today. If you do, you'll later have to really hustle.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may find yourself in a situation where you'll wrongly feel you'll have to put on a few airs to impress others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Shy away from sales types today who tend to grossly exaggerate. Their stories may be fascinating, but chances are their products aren't.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're still in a good financial cycle. At the same time you tend to be extravagant, making it difficult to show a profit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be your own man today. Don't let others decide what's best. Have the courage of your convictions. Stand firm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's ethical and noble to fairly share gains from joint efforts, but foolish to reward one who had no hand in them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't bet on situations today where you have to fully depend upon another to carry the ball. He's apt to fumble.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It is still possible to achieve your goals, though it won't be as easy as you first anticipated. Keep at it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be very realistic in the way you evaluate situations today. If you spot something wrong, don't kid yourself that it doesn't exist.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) See to it that those you deal with today pick up their fair share of the tab, or your generous nature will take the rap.

Your Birthday

June 18, 1975

You're going to become involved this year in the management of a larger enterprise than you've previously handled. It could be either of a social or business nature.

Pregnant minors class set

Amador Valley Joint High School District board members indicated support earlier this week for establishment of a special day class in Livermore for pregnant minors.

The district, as well as Livermore Valley Unified School District, are eligible to refer students to this program.

The school is located at Crestwood Lodge on Fenton Street in Livermore. Crestwood is a convalescent home; however, the apartment was available and, according to a report by Gloria Jones of the Amador district, meets all fire and code standards.

Mrs. Carol German from the Livermore district is the instructor.

Mrs. Jones said the rationale for continuity of the program is the responsibility of the school district.

"A high school diploma is not only an asset but a necessity for a girl who may have to support herself and a child without assistance," commented Mrs. Jones, pupil personnel services director for the district. "Once a high school graduate, she is emotionally and functionally better equipped to meet the needs of her new role. A pregnant minor program provides this continuity. The fact of its existence creates a responsible method to handle unique problems associated with teenage pregnancy, for example, nutrition, child care, and counseling."

Mrs. Jones added that "the program implies sponsorship of each girl as a person who can and should be helped to grow into an informed and responsible citizen. The educational program thus would be designed to maximize probability of high school graduation in terms of completing graduation requirements on time and also to insure that each girl is helped to understand and deal with physiological and psychological needs for herself and her child during pregnancy and immediately thereafter."

Mrs. Jones stated that the County Office of Special Education will administer the program in its entirety with the provision of local coordination from Amador and Livermore via consultancy by the school nurses, the coordinator of special education, supervisor of pupil welfare and attendance and the pupil personnel staff.

Livermore school nurse, Mrs. Joanne Berven, and a local pediatrician, Dr. Bruce Gach, have volunteered time and evidenced interest and support for such a program, according to Mrs. Jones.

John Whitbred of Pleasanton receives congratulations from his father, who was his scoutmaster, after receiving his Eagle Badge while his mother proudly looks on.

Scoutmaster father awards son Eagle

PLEASANTON - Saturday night, John Whitbred received the highest honor obtainable by a Scout from his father, Scoutmaster, Len Whitbred of Troop 916 at Highland Oaks Recreation Center in Pleasanton.

John and his father spent many hours of long, hard work before John's Father had the honor and privilege of pinning the Eagle Badge on his son during the Eagle Court of Honor with 100 friends and family in attendance.

The junior at Foothill High School has been in Scouting with Troop 916 for five year years. He has served as assistant patrol leader, patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader and quartermaster. He participated in three 50 mile hikes, numerous campouts and summer camps. Presently, he is serving as secretary-treasurer of the Twin Valley Order of the Arrow.

John has earned 34 merit badges. For his Eagle Badge project, he organized, supervised and worked with a group of boys in building an outdoor barbecue for the Highland Oaks Recreation Center.

President Gerald Ford and Mayor Ed Kinney sent their congratulations to John for his fine achievements. Congressman Pete Stark also sent a letter of congratulations plus an American flag which flew over the capitol on May 1, John's birthday.

The new Eagle is a member of the track team at Foothill High School, enjoys skiing, water and snow, and sailing.

His proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Whitbred of Applewood Way, Pleasanton

Marine Pvt. Thorup recruit graduate

Marine Private James D. Thorup, son of Mr. Don Thorup of 3148 Callaghan St. in Livermore, was graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego.

Classes include instruction in close order drill, Marine Corps history, first aid, uniform regulations and military customs and courtesies.

For hospital use

Consent forms available

LIVERMORE — If your eight-year-old breaks his leg while under the care of a babysitter, he may have to suffer with it until you can be contacted for permission to treat it.

That's the law: A doctor can't treat a child under 18 without parental consent, unless it's a case of life and death.

Valley Memorial Hospital is now offering a convenient way to make sure your child gets immediate treatment, regardless of the circumstances. There's a special consent form available in the emergency department and at the business office at VMH, from the information desk at the Family Health Care Center in San Ramon, and from pediatricians and general practitioners throughout the Valley.

According to VMH emergency room personnel, frequently parents go on vacation, leaving the kids with a sitter, and the hospital has difficulty locating them in an emergency situation.

The consent form is conveniently wallet-sized. VMH suggests teens should carry it in their wallet at all times, while cards for younger children may be left with an adult in charge. (An adult is anyone 18 or older.)

The card also has a place to list allergies, insurance information and names of doctors preferred, and must be signed by a parent.

In Pleasanton, the school PTA's copied the consent form and sent it home with all school children.
